Robins equipment rentals help keep yards shipshape

By Lanorris Askew
lanorris.askew@robins.af.mil

If your green-thumbbed neighbors have you green with envy, have no fear. There are lots of ways to improve your yard's curb appeal without breaking the bank.

Robins' Outdoor Recreation and the Self Help Store are two ways to cultivate a great relationship with your yard – on and off base.

Whether it's weeding, edging, tilling or mowing, Outdoor Rec has just the tools you need to make your yard the envy of the neighborhood. Just ask Staff Sgt. Bobby Lynch and his wife Kim.

The Lynch family has lived on base for five years, but this year they decided to make their yard a showplace.

Complete with hibiscus plants and a novel tomato bush planted by their 7-year-old daughter Marley, they used different resources to give their yard a little personality.

What to know

- Outdoor Recreation is located in Building 986 for a full price list or more information on equipment rental, call 926-4001. The Self Help Store, located in Building 667, provides Airmen living in base housing $150 in lawn equipment rental and interior home maintenance materials per house each year at no cost. For more information, call 926-5121.

"It was a weekend project," said Mrs. Lynch. "It was fun." While Bobby's grandfather owns the nursery where most of their plants were purchased, Mrs. Lynch said they visited Outdoor Rec for items like lawn mowers and edging pieces, and the Base Exchange for items like flower pots and a bird bath.

"If they're looking for an inexpensive way to make their home look great we hope people come in and give us a look," said Cheryl Dollard, Outdoor Recreation manager. "We're always open for suggestions if there are items that we don't carry."

Mrs. Dollard said Outdoor Rec's prices are also less expensive than most off base equipment rentals.

All equipment at Outdoor Rec is available to active duty as well as retired military and their family members who are 18 or older. Reservists and Department of Defense employees assigned to Robins and DoD contractors can also rent the items. Items can be rented in daily increments or for shorter periods of up to four hours.

Airmen who reside on base can take advantage of another treasure trove of home improvement equipment - The Self Help Store. It was founded in 2001 and has items that range from riding mowers to ant killer and everything in between.

According to Wayne Baldwin of the base housing office, Airmen who live on base are allotted a yearly stipend to take care of household needs such as lawn care. The Airmen can go to Self Help, rent items and the cost is deducted from that stipend account.

Staff Sgt. Patrice Davis, 78th Medical Group public health technician, recently made a trip to the store to prepare her yard for an upcoming inspection.

"I have to hedge, mow, trim and lay mulch," she said. "I'm picking up an electric hedger, an edger and some mulch."

Dayna Respa, outdoor recreation assistant, said they're constantly busy.

"It's only my second day, and it has been very eventful," she said.

Outdoor Rec's hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and during the summer months Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Self Help Store provides 48-hour rental of equipment and is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Mrs. Lynch said they visited Outdoor Rec for items like lawn mowers and edging pieces, and the Base Exchange for items like flower pots and a bird bath. All equipment at Outdoor Rec is available to active duty as well as retired military and their family members who are 18 or older, Reservists, Department of Defense employees assigned to Robins and DoD contractors. Items can be rented in daily increments or for shorter periods of up to four hours.

A couple of garden statues enhance the appearance of the Lynch's yard. The Base Exchange sells lawn accessories like flower pots and bird baths.

Staff Sgt. Patrice Davis takes advantage of the base's Self Help Store by renting an edger. Airmen can rent items from the store, and the cost is deducted from a $150 stipend.

PUT YOUR HANDS TOGETHER FOR ...

The "Put your hands together for..." feature is a monthly installment to the Robins Rev-Up. Due to the overwhelming number of awards people at Robins receive, we just aren't able to cover them all. This feature is our way of ensuring we give credit where we can. The installment runs in the last issue published each month. To have an award included in the "Put your hands together for..." page, submit a brief write up of the award and the people who have earned it. Photos may also be submitted, but space is limited. Submissions should be sent either by e-mail or brought to the Rev-Up office, Suite 111, Building 215. Submissions that are brought to the office should be in Microsoft Word on a disk. Photos can be e-mailed or delivered to the office too. For more information, contact Geoff Janes at geoff.janes@robins.af.mil or Angela Trunzo at angela.trunzo@robins.af.mil. Either can be reached by phone at 926-2137.

KADENA AIR BASE, Japan – Jet engine mechanics with the 18th Component Maintenance Squadron move the last upgraded F-15 Eagle engine in a maintenance hangar here. For the last six years more than 100 mechanics have been upgrading more than 100 F-15 engines from a "Dash 100" model to a "Dash 220E" engine saving the Air Force more than $100 million.

Mechanics finish six-year F-15 engine upgrades

By Master Sgt. Adam Johnston
18th Wing Public Affairs

KADENA AIR BASE, Japan – Jet engine mechanics have turned the final wrenches on a unique F-15 Eagle engine upgrade program here, saving the Air Force more than $100 million, officials said.

For the last six years, more than 100 jet engine mechanics with the 18th Maintenance Group have been converting F-15 engines. They changed the hydromechanical-powered F100-PW-100 engine – known by mechanics as the “Dash 100” – to an electronically enhanced and more maintenance friendly model called the “Dash 220E,” or the F100-PW-22OE.

“The difference in the engine upgrade is like comparing the engine of a 1957 Chevy to the engine in a car made today,” said Senior Master Sgt. Wayne Fillingim, superintendent of the 18th

Component Maintenance Squadron’s propulsion flight. “With the old engines, the mechanic would constantly have to make tweaks to optimize engine performance based on his [or her] experience and knowledge.”

With the new engines, jet mechanics are able to hook the motor up to a diagnostics machine and have the engine “tell” the mechanic what is wrong with it.

Before the upgrade program started in 1998, maintenance officials here said that field-level jet engine mechanics had never been asked to perform extensive upgrades to the F-15.

“We saved money in shipment costs, reusing some of the parts from the Dash 100 on the Dash 220E engines and by upgrading (other) parts of the engine locally rather than exchanging them for new ones from the depot,” Sergeant Fillingim said. “We’ve saved the Air Force about $101 million by doing it this way.”
